Dear Readers,

The seasons have turned, and summer is well and truly upon us. Along with cricket, scalding steering wheels, and the inevitable rush into the festive season. Summer brings with it the summer storms and more humidity. Please be aware of the damage moisture can do to hearing aids. Drying kits are always available in the office. As we head full tilt into the festive season, it might be a good idea to stock up on any necessary batteries or accessories for the Christmas closure period. (See dates of closure below) We have a number of special offers during December.

New hearing devices are continuously being released onto the market and we will definitely be keeping all our clients updated with all the latest technology in the various available brands .

We wish you a Merry Christmas and a safe, prosperous and happy New Year.

Cynthia, Natalie and Katia

TIP: For family gatherings over Christmas, use communication skills in conjunction with your hearing aids. Encourage friends and family members to face you when speaking to you and watch people's mouths when they speak. Concentrate on the main ideas that the speaker is expressing rather than straining to understand every word.

For Australian Government Hearing aid clients

Please note: New procedure for Return Voucher Requests

As from 17th November the Office of Hearing Services will be posting out Return Voucher Request forms to all clients who were last issued with a voucher for a full free hearing assessment two years previous to 1 October 2008. These clients are due for a further free hearing assessment. Please complete and sign this application if you would like a further hearing test. If you decide not to avail yourself of this free hearing test, please contact us and we will explain how the new procedure will work and who to contact, if necessary.

For any information in this regard, please call us on

"You need an urgent operation, but don't worry. I will make sure you're on my list."
